SHOWS FOR 6 TO 20 GUESTS

HOW DOES A MINI MYSTERY WORK

For parties of 6-20 guests, we have developed a special format. This format is very interactive, requiring the guests to "play" characters, while two of our professionally trained actors guide them through an evening of mystery! This format works best for a group of outgoing people, who enjoy being the center of attention and each other's company. Don't worry – no great acting skills are required, just some preparation before hand!

About two weeks prior to the event, we will send you information for each of the characters. We can discuss beforehand which guest will be assigned to which role.

On the night of the event, the guests will receive packets with additional information, which may include:

- Description of his/her character
- Clues
- Note-taking sheet/ballot
- "Cash" which guests can use to buy clues!

Once the guests receive their packets, they will have time to read through them to determine what pertinent clues they need to reveal and for what they should keep their eyes open! The guests may also be assigned teams, which will work together to solve the mystery as well as perform other tasks relevant to the game throughout the event.

All of a sudden ... BANG! a murder takes place! At this point, one of the actors (two Without A Cue actors are involved in our mini murder mysteries)_ reveals himself as a detective and launches an interrogation of all the guests. Following the interrogation, guests have the chance of winning extra clues through a series of games and interactions. Once all of the clues have been revealed and all characters have been interrogated, the guests have a chance to cast their vote and answer the three M's of murder mystery: The Murderer, The Motive, and The Method! The guest with the most correct answer will win a prize provided by Without A Cue Productions!

PRICING

Mini Mystery Cost for 20 Guests: $700.00
$350 non-refundable deposit due upon signing contract

We also request that if a meal break occurs during your event and guests are provided a meal, that the two actors are provided a meal as well. If this is not possible given your particular event, please let us know so actors can prepare accordingly.

"I just wanted to touch base with you in regards to Saturday night, everything was fantastic! The actors did an amazing job! They were funny and really entertained us, and the singing was a great touch too. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves! We just wanted to say thank you for everything! "

Murder In Tinseltown

Hollywood's hottest producer, Cecil M. DeBill, has invited anyone who is anyone to his birthday party - including you! Unfortunately, tragedy has befallen this celebration. A few minutes before the party started, Cecil went into his office to answer a phone call and never returned. Two of the party's attendees, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, began to search for him when they discovered him lying on the floor of his study...dead. In Hollywood, everyone has a motive - especially in this "Murder in Tinseltown."

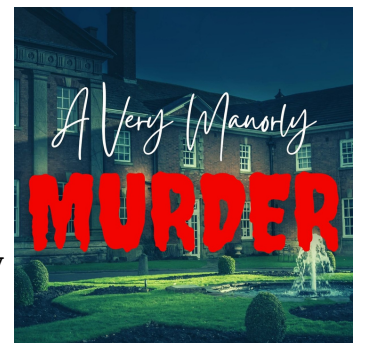

A Very Manorly Mureder

It is 1936...

And, at an English country estate, a wealthy nobleman and well known newspaper publisher celebrated his 70th birthday last night. The assembled guests celebrated the event in a most fitting way, with enough food and drink to choke the proverbial horse. But, it seems the horse may have fought back. For, this morning, Sir Henry was found dead in the stables near the main house.

Everyone is a suspect as you try to solve A Very Manorly Murder.

Murder At Twilight

Eddie and Ella have gathered everyone together for their annual Vampire Ball. This year, all of the vampires the world over have traveled to Paris to celebrate. However, the guest of honor is missing, and rumor is that his indiscretions over the past year may have made him one enemy too many. When he is found staked among the ornate decorations in the reception hall, it is up to you to solve this "Murder at Twilight."

Mystery At Macintosh Mansion

In 1892, Colonel Charles D. Macintosh was murdered in his mansion - and his murder was never solved! Some say he still haunts the halls of the home he built, and that his spirit will never be free until his killer is revealed. Every year, a group of psychics and paranormal investigators gather at the old mansion to try to contact his ghost in hopes of solving the mystery - and this year, you have been invited! However, it appears that tonight's guests aren't exclusively among the living. Join us to help solve the mystery at Macintosh Mansion!

Murder of an American Star

Tyler Quick is on the set of Big American Star as a judge of the ultra popular talent show. The contestants have been whittled down to a mere handful, and the competition is fierce. The performers have been practicing their acts non-stop with the hopes of being chosen for the finals. But rumors have been flying that the backstage atmosphere is negatively charged – perhaps even murderously so. When the contestants begin to have life threatening "accidents," it is up to Tyler Quick to solve the mystery before the competition turns deadly. (LADIES ONLY.)

Murder and Magnolias

Mrs. Merriweather can hardly believe it, but it is time to start planning her daughter's debutante ball. Magnolia Merriweather's cotillion is going to be the event of the Atlanta social season, and her mother has invited Magnolia's closest friends to tea to help plan the event. All the ladies are thrilled to be able to give their input, but they are even more excited by the special guest – Magnolia's dashing and handsome cousin Brett, who is visiting from South Carolina. Several of the ladies have become rather starry eyed over Brett, and the competition for his affections is intense. However, will that competition turn deadly in this land of murder and magnolias? (LADIES ONLY.)
