Murder In Tinseltown

$1,000 up to 50 guests

$500 non-refundable deposit due upon signing contract

Hollywood's hottest producer, Cecil M. DeBill, has invited anyone who is anyone to his birthday party - including you! Unfortunately, tragedy has befallen this celebration. A few minutes before the party started, Cecil went into his office to answer a phone call and never returned. Two of the party's attendees, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, began to search for him when they discovered him lying on the floor of his study...dead. In Hollywood, everyone has a motive - especially in this "Murder in Tinseltown."

Slaying at the Sapphire Club

$1,000 up to 50 guests

$500 non-refundable deposit due upon signing contract

It's the Roaring '20s and tonight is the long awaited grand opening of the Sapphire Club - the jewel in the crown of Don Idunnit. Idunnit is eager to show the big bosses what he can bring to the table, and tonight, he aims to impress. Word on the street is that even the big New York boss will be in attendance. The creme de la creme of the Chicago Mob is expected to be in attendance, and while packing heat has been strictly forbidden, that doesn't mean everyone is following the rules. So put on your glad rags and step back in time for a "Slaying at the Sapphire Club."

"I just wanted to touch base with you in regards to Saturday night, everything was fantastic! The actors did an amazing job! They were funny and really entertained us, and the singing was a great touch too. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves and really liked the fact that the actors involved them but didn't make them have to act anything out. They liked that they could be apart of it by talking or just giving a high five or something along those lines. We just wanted to say thank you for everything!" - Merck Sharp & Dohme Federal Credit Union
